DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the amendment along with the RCE filed 09/30/2009. Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65 are pending. Claims 1-48, 54, and 59-63 are cancelled.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

2. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 09/30/2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. In Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65, at least the claim limitations regarding the maximum width, width, the distal taper, length, and thickness of the wire cannot be found in the original specification and are considered as new matter. Although a wire is inherent to have a length, a width, and/or a thickness, the claim limitations regarding the maximum width, width, the distal taper, length, and thickness of the wire in Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65 are not inherent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dubrul et al (US Pub. No.: 2002/0019597).

In regard to Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65, Dubrul et al discloses an embolectomy device, comprising: a catheter (120), a vacuum source fluidly connected to the distal end of the first shaft and second shaft (there must be a vacuum source located outside the tissue and fluidly connected to the distal end of the first shaft and second shaft since fluid is withdrawn through suction inlets 122, Fig 11A); and a wire (the wire of the mesh cutter 138, Fig. 11D).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 09/30/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Although a wire is inherent to have a length, a width, and/or a thickness, the claim limitations regarding the maximum width, width, the distal taper, length, and thickness of the wire in Claims 49-53, 55-58, 64, and 65 are not inherent and are considered as new matter. Specifically, the limitation "wherein the distal region of the wire includes a distal tip and a region proximate the distal tip having a maximum width perpendicular to the longitudinal axis of the lumen that is greater than the width of the intermediate region of the wire and wherein the distal tip has a width that is less than that of the region proximate the distal tip, wherein the distal region includes a distal taper that is more gradual than a proximal taper" in Claim 49 is clearly not inherent from the original disclosure and is considered as new matter.

As noted above, all of the claimed structure is found in the reference and the examiner contends that the prior art is capable of performing the claimed functions.
